

Feeding Dogs

„too skinny“

This is not skinny.

also this is not skinny:

this is too skinny:

(not because of ribs to see - that SHOULD be)

but if You can see hip bones and spine bones,
that is a proof it is some skinny.

Also too skinny, dogs with long fur should not display rib bones!
Showing hip and spines: „way too skinny“

About feeding Puppy dogs: how much will it be as adult dog?

This decides the amount of menu.

if it should get 6 kg, she should have $25-30 \times 6 = 150-180\text{g}$  a day

with all menus. Just SCHAF needs some additional flakes anyhow. Because there are no fruit or cereals in it.

The final weight is the criteria, if it WANTS to eat such much and is able to digest it.

On top of that You can add some of our organic-flakes or organic-natural rice if it gets skinnier though You give according to the rules.

Depends on exercise and liveliness...

5 x 30 = 150 g/day

10 x 25 = 250

20 x 20 = 400

30 x 20 = 600

40 x 20 = 800

What is too much, examples:

no doubt:

red line: how it SHOULD be !!!

uups, thats us... (as we'd like to be) because slightly showing rib bones of dogs refer to the human SIX PACK corresponds to.... see next page!

like that: PERFECT with LITTLE ribs to see, no spines, no hip bones:

or that (could even be some less):
